It is noted that the developer team used computed tomography with 500 patients with large nodes in the lungs to develop an algorithm basis with the help of radiomy. This technology can extract important information from medical images that are difficult to see the human eye.

Then the artificial intelligence model was tested to determine if it could accurately identify cancer nodes.

A group of doctor, scientists and researchers from the United Kingdom have created an algorithm of artificial intelligence, which can accurately detect cancer.

As Ukrinform reports, it reports .

«У майбутньому ми сподіваємося, що це покращить раннє виявлення та потенційнозробить лікування раку більш успішним, виділивши пацієнтів із високим ризикомі пришвидшивши раннє втручання (doctors - ed.)», - said Dr. Benjaminter from the Royal Health Fund. Marsden.

It is noted that the developer team used computed tomography with 500 patients with large nodes in the lungs to develop an algorithm basis with the help of radiomy. This technology can extract important information from medical images that are difficult to see the human eye.

Then the artificial intelligence model was tested to determine if it could accurately identify cancer nodes.

Severe discussions in the world continue to unfold in the world about the possible transfer of the F-16 fighter to Ukraine. On the air of the Teleterna

"One News" Air Force, Colonel Yuri Ignatus emphasized that the powerless Western multi -purpose fighters of the 4+ generation generation will be very difficult to protect our Ukraine. Both in peacetime and in wartime, Ukraine needs air cover:

-Most importantly, the F-16 will help protect Ukrainians from air terrorism, as the aircraft will become an important component of the air defense system. Unfortunately, the process of waiting for Western aircraft is too expensive for Ukraine. It should also be understood that without preference in the air it is difficult to succeed during the time or offensive, as a multi -purpose fighter will support all defense forces. And we need to move to the de -occupation of Ukrainian territories.

Meanwhile, Ukrainian pilots and land staff are actively improving the English language. To some extent, the airfield infrastructure is prepared.
